Relieves Colic

Cures Constinution

Thedford's Black-Draught is the ideal family medicine for constipation, colic, cramps, indigestion, biliousness, and stomach, liver, and howel troubles,

It is a pleasant, simple medicine, composed of vegetable herbs and roots, with a gentle but certain action on the liver and other digestive organs.

Just a pinch or two, on the tongue, washed down with a swallow of water, is the easy and pleasant way to take it, or you can make it up into a tea, or bitters, full directions as to which are in every package.

The prompt, yet gentle action, without griping or sickening after-effects, of this well-known Southern liver medicine, have made it a favorite wherever known, and for 70 years its sales have been constantly on the increase. (Ask your druggist).

"I suffered for 12 years," writes Martha Simes, of Milan, Mo., "with stomach and liver trouble. I had eramping spells in my stomach, pain MRS. MARTHA SIMES in the back and under the left breast. Nothing did me any good, so I thought I would try Thedford's Black-Draught. I took it for about a month and began to feel better, and now I feel like a new woman." Try it.

Heaving the log is one of those pleturesque sea expressions with which all landsmen are acquainted, though probably few could explain the exact process. The "log" is a quadrant shaped piece of wood londed with jend at the curve. The line to which it is attached is 120 fathems long and is divided by knots into equal distances of forty-seven feet such. These distances are the same fraction of a mantleal mile (a knot) as twenty-eight seconds Is of one hour.
